

The State of the Channel: Channel Insight Survey Report 2016

TERMS & CONDITIONS OF USE

Single User License

The Licensed User named on the supplied report is permitted to use Miles Publishing Limited Research documents for your personal use within your job role.

You may print a limited number of copies of the report for your own personal use but Miles Publishing Limited Research documents cannot generally be shared or distributed:

- With any individual non-licensed user either within or outside of your organisation in hard copy or digital format.
- Via intranet posting, email, web page or other information storage & retrieval systems.

You may if required by your job role share Miles Publishing Limited Research internally with your colleagues by;

- Providing a brief summary of the Miles Publishing Limited Research in your own words (attributing Miles Publishing Limited as the source).
- Include a specific graphical image/chart, a paragraph of text or up to 5 sentences in an internal presentation or report (attributing Miles Publishing Limited as the source).

NOTE: Unreasonable use of the above would be:

- Routinely providing information contained in Miles Publishing Limited Research for non-licensed users to assist their research needs with the intent or effect of avoiding purchasing additional user licences.
- Presenting the information contained within the Miles Publishing Limited Research to an internal audience of more than 10 people.

Any publication of confidential information outside your organisation without the prior consent of MILES PUBLISHING LIMITED is expressly forbidden. You should send us a copy of any literature that references our data before it is published. We will generally agree to such publication, but ask you adhere to the following guidelines:

- The information should be a clear, fair and accurate representation of what our research indicates
- The time period and measure should be clearly indicated and MILES PUBLISHING LIMITED should be credited as the source of information

Multi User Licenses are available on application to Miles Publishing Limited.

If you have any questions regarding these guidelines, or the appropriate uses of our data, please feel free to call.